Charles Johnson Memorial Hospital International Nurses Day.

MS P.P Thompson introduced the theme of the day she reminded the nurses in terms of behavior that they should always be compassionate, kind, smiling and love their work. Members of the organized Labour from NEHAWU were also present.

The nurses went on to perform their prayer which was followed by a candle lightning ceremony and the reading of the nurse's pledge which was led by Mrs N.P Kunene (Deputy Manager Nursing) then she delivered a speech that revived the spirit of the nurses she also elaborated on Florence Nightingale's history. She thanked all nurses for their dedication and commitment she said many patients are forever grateful to the nurses for the care during illness and hospital stay. The Deputy Manager Nursing (Mrs. P.N. Kunene) also thanked nurses and all other staff members to ensure that the community of Nguthu Sub-District and surrounding areas are vaccinated for COVID-19.

The Deputy Nursing Manager has also taken the time to remember the nurses and staff members who have sadly lost their lives due to COVID-19.

"We know that these deaths have left many families without breadwinners. Due to COVID-19, many children have been left without mothers and fathers; and communities and workplaces are today without their beloved and trusted pillars of support."

"Therefore, to all those who have lost their loved ones, we send our Operation Phuthuma week.

The hospital Management has commended the outreached teams for being able to vaccinate more than 7 000 people who heeded the call to be vaccinated against COVID-19 during the first Phuthuma Week which started from the $15^{th} - 22^{nd}$ of May 2022.

The main focus of this programme will be on activities aimed at increasing vaccine demand through awareness, engagements and removal of physical barriers to access to vaccination services. As the vaccination services program is now adopting an integrated approach and moving away from a vertical program design, especially with target populations that also suffer other comorbidities and are therefore more vulnerable to poor Covid-19 infection outcomes.

During Phuthuma Week, Charles Johnson Memorial hospital visited and vaccinated 25 Schools, targeted local taxi ranks, Supermarkets and Traditional Local Councils during this programme

Phuthuma week is also aim to mobilise citizens and people living in Nquthu to get vaccinated as a means to fight the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Hospital CEO appreciated local leadership from all sectors of society including Principals of different schools who successfully mobilised communities and leaners to protect themselves by vaccinating during this period. He also stated the he hope the success of our first Phuthuma Vaccination Week at Nquthu will inspire unvaccinated people to step forward every day of the week to be vaccinated. "Let's keep up this effort and ensure inspire who continue to go the extra mile to keep our community safe." Vaccines are safe and easy to receive. They protect people against serious illness, hospitalization and death. And when the majority of people in the country are vaccinated, the nation will experience a greater sense of freedom and safety in social interactions and economic activity.
