HOT WATER SYSTEMS The preferred system for the provision of hot water in large quantities is Heat Pumps. Rev 5 Consideration shall be given to the installation of approved solar panel water heating systems which shall form part of the Eskom initiative to reduce power consumption. This system shall be incorporated into the design of electrically operated water heating systems at all health institutions. Rev 2 Solar water heaters shall be installed by ESKOM approved installers only. Rev 3 Only thermo-syphon type solar water heating systems shall be installed in systems with a storage capacity of 350 liters or less. Rev 3 Solar water heating, energy recovery units and heat pumps shall be considered in the design stage for all new facilities and the renovation of existing facilities. Investigation into the quality of electrical and water supply needs to be evaluated. Rev 4 As far as is practical, hot water systems are to be decentralized, i.e. point of use. Hot water supply design figure – 35 liters per patient per day. Domestic type installations may be supplied from standard, i.e. up to 250 liters, 4kW geysers, but larger systems are to consist of electric in-line heat pumps coupled to storage tank(s). These storage tanks are not to exceed 2,500L capacity per unit. Rev 5 Only double chamber instantaneous water heaters are to be installed and no provision shall be made for hot water tap outlet. For electrical driven systems refer to the Provincial Standard Specification for Hot and Cold Water for Building Services for further details. For steam driven: Steam and Condensate Reticulation General Point of use application shall be the design criteria. No clarifiers storage for patient and staff areas shall not exceed 600C. Hot water temperature for pediatric wards shall not exceed 400C at the point of use. The use of thermostatically controlled mixing valves on the hot water line is recommended near the point of consumption. (Group these points together from one mixing valve). Kitchen and Laundry clarifiers shall not exceed 80°C. All pressure/temperature gauges shall be marked. All reticulation piping on hot or cold water services to be of copper class 2 and installed on external walls wherever possible, if installed in walls, only labor bends are permitted. Drain valves to be situated at the lowest level for both the storage vessel and the inline heater and to be easily accessible and to discharge to drain. All safety valves shall discharge outside the plant room and in a safe position so as not to cause injury or damage to persons or buildings.
