

Media Invitation:

Orientation of community service officers

Dear Member of the Media,

You are cordially invited to two very important media engagements which take place in Durban on Friday 26 January 2018 – the orientation and induction of 300 (out of 1000) Community Service Officers at Inkosi Albert Luthuli Central Hospital at 09h00; as well as a walkabout of the soon-to-be opened Dr Pixley Ka Isaka Seme Hospital, at 13h30.

Within this cohort are students in the following fields:

- Physiotherapy;
- Occupational Therapy;
- Speech Therapy & Audiology;
- Dentists;
- Clinical Psychologists; and
- Medical Doctors

This on-the-job training of Community Service Officers will ultimately boost the provision of healthcare services for the people of KwaZulu-Natal. An important aspect of the community service programme is that besides the benefits accrued by the public in a skilled health worker; it also provides young professionals with an opportunity to develop skills, acquire knowledge and critical thinking skills, and get a better understanding of behaviour patterns – all of which helps them in their professional development.

The KZN Department of Health prides itself in that it is the only province that has a policy for Community Service Officer spending 60% of their time rendering community out-reach service at Primary Health Care level.

During the orientation, MEC Dhlomo will deliver his speech outlining the significance of the students are embarking on; as well as interact with them. He will be available to field questions from the media, and there will be opportunities to interview the students as well.
